Strange Adventure of a Picket.

While on my lonely beat about an hour ago, a light tread attracted my attention, and on looking up I beheld one of Secesh's pickets standing before me. "Stranger," says he, "you remind me of my grandmother, who expired before I was born, but this unnatural war has made us enemies, and I must shoot you. Give me a chaw ter-

He was a young man, my boy, in the prime of life, and descended from the First Families of Virginia. At least that's what I understood by the First Families of Virginia. I looked at him, and says I-

"Let's compromise, my brother."
"Never!" says he; "the South is fighting for her liberty, her firesides, and the pursuit of happiness, and I desire more respectfully to welcome you with bloody hands to a hospitable grave."

"Stand off ten paces," says I, "and let's see whose name shall come before the coroner

He took his place and we fired simultaneously. I heard a ball go whistling by a barn about a quarter of a mile on my right, and when the smoke cleared away I saw the Secesh picket approach me with an awful expression of woe on his otherwise dirty countenance.

"Soldier," says he, "was there anything in my head before you fired ?" Nothing," says I, "save a few harmless insects."

"I speak not of them," says he. "Was there anything inside of my head ?"

" Nothing," says I. "Well," says he, "just listen now."
He shook his head mournfully, and I heard something rattle in it. "What is that?" I exclaimed. "That," said he, "is your bullet, which has penetrated my skull, and is rolling around in my brain. I die happy, and with an empty stomach, but there is one thing I should like to see before I perish for my country. Have you a quarter about you?"

Too much affected to speak, I drew a coin from my pocket and handed it to him. The dying man clutched it convulsively, and stared at it feverishly. "This," said he, "is the first quarter I have seen since the fall of Sumter, and had I wounded you, I should have been totally unable to have given you a quarter. Ah, how beautiful it is! how bright, how exquisite, and good for four drinks! But I have not time to say all I feel." The expiring soldier then laid down his gun, hung his cap and evercoat on a branch of tree, and blew his nose. He then died.

And there I stood, my boy, on that lonely beat, looking down upon that fallen type of manhood, and thinking how singular it was he had forgotten to give me back my quarter. The sight and the thought so affected me that approval. I was obliged to turn my back on the corpse, and walk a little way from it. When I returned to the spot, the body was gone. Had it gone to Heaven? Perhaps so, my boy-perhaps so; but I haven't seen my quarter since.

Rules for Tree Planters.

The following rules are so self-evident to men of experience, that they seem almost like axioms; and yet they are continually broken by nevices in setting out orchard and fruit 1. If the roots of a tree are frozen out of the ground, and thawed again in contact with air. the tree is killed. all cavities before thawing any at all, the tree is uninjured. 3. Manure should never be placed in contact with the roots of a tree, in setting it out, but old finely pulverized earthy compost answers

4. Trees should always be set about as deep as they stood before digging up.

5. A small er moderate sized tree at the time of transplanting will usually be a large bearing tree, sooner than a larger tree set out at the same time, and which is checked necesarily in growth by removal.

6. Constant, clean, and mellow cultivation is absolutely necessary at all times for the sucsessful growth of the peach tree, at any sge; it is as necessary for a young plum tree, but not quite so much so for an old ene; it is nearly as essential for a young apple tree, but much less so for an old orchard, and still less necessary for a middle aged cherry tree.

7. To guard against mice in winter with perfect success, make a small, compact, smooth earth mound nearly a foot high, around the stem of each young orchard tree.

8. Warm valleys, with a rich seil, are mere liable to cause destruction to trees or their crops by cold, than moderate hills of more exposure, and with less fertile soil-the cold sir settling at the bottom of valleys during the sharpest frosts, and the rich soil making the trees grow too late in autumn, without ripening and hardening their wood

9. The roots of a tree extend nearly as far on each side as the hight of the tree; and hence to dig it up by cutting a circle with the spade half a foot in diameter, cuts off more than nine-tenths of the roots; and to spade a little circle about a young tree not one quarter as far as the roots extend, and call it "cultivation," is like Falstaff's men claiming spurs and shirt collar for a complete suit.

10. Watering a tree in dry weather affords but temporary relief, and often does more harm than good by crusting the surface. Keeping the surface constantly mellow is much more valuable and important-or if this cannot be done, mulch well. If watering is ever done from necessity, remove the top earth, pour in the water, and then replace the earth-the n mulch, or keep the surface very mellow.

11. Shrivelled trees may be made plump before planting, by covering tops and all with earth for several days. 12. Watering trees before they expand their leaves, should not be done by pouring water at the roots, but by keeping the bark of the stem and branches frequently or constantly moist. Trees in leaf and in rapid growth, may be watered at the roots, if done properly. 13. Young trees may be manured to great advantage by spreading manure over the roots as far as they extend, or over a circle whose radius is equal to the height of the tree, in autumn or early winter, and spading this manure in, in spring. 14. Never set young trees in a grass field, is still worse, as the roots go deep, and rob the tree roots. The whole surface should be clean and mellow; or if any crops are suffered, they should be potatoes, carrots, turnips, or other low hoed crops.—Country Gentleman.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

This noble fall flower may be taken up and put into a large pot or tub, after its blossoms are expanded, if a little care is taken to retain as many of the fibres as possible; indeed, it easily retains a large mass of the roots and fibres, and if these are put into a pot or tub large enough to hold them entire, and watered well, the plant is enabled to stand the removal. Taken in, out of the reach of severe frosts, it will finish up its period of blooming, and reward its owner with flowers of different colors, for weeks after all other flowers have disappeared from the garden, and after its comrades. left out, are blackened with frost. Chrysanthemums seldom get half through blooming before they are cut off by frost, and their beauty well repays the little trouble of lifting them.—Valley Farmer.

A MANNERLY YOUTH .- Last week the Crabtown Dorcas Sewing Society held their annual meeting, and on motion it was voted "That our parson wait on Tony Jones, and see if no-thing can be done to improve the manners of young Tony." The next day the Parson called upon Tony,

Sr., and informed him respecting the object of his visit, to which he replied:

"Parson, I'd let Tony go to meetin' every Sunday if I only know'd you's goin' to preach. But, Parson, there ain't a boy in the village of Crabtown what's got more manners than my Tony, and I can convince you of that in just a minit. You see Tony out there skinnin' them niffers ?"

The Parson nodded assent. "Now, see, I'll call him." And raising his voice to the highest pitch, he shouted— " To-o-o-ny!"

The response was quick and equally loud-

"Do you hear that, Parson?" said the man Don't ye call that manners?" "That is all very well," replied the Parson, so far as it goes-"What do you mean by 'far as it goes?" That boy, sir, always speaks respectfully to me, when I call him."

Then raising his voice he again called-"T-0-0-0-ny!"

The boy dropped a half-dressed fish, and shaking his fist at his sire, yelled out— "Ye miserable, black, old, drunken snob, I'll come in there in jist two minnits, an' maul ye like blazes." The Parson was astounded. The old man was disconcerted for a moment, but instantly recovering himself, he tapped the Parson on the shoulder, saying-"You see, Parson, my boy has got grit as well as manners. This chap will make an ornament to your society some of 'em days.''

The Parson shook his head and mizzled.

Things in New York.

The Sun newspaper has again changed hands, Moses S. Beach, Esq, the former proprietor, has resumed command of the ship, and its course hereafter will probably be less erratic and more prosperous than it has been during the past year.
Hiram Fuller, formerly editor of the New York Mirror, has turned up in Paris and London, on the outskirts of the "upper classes," as a full-blown secessionist. So Americans report who have just arrived from there. Hiram was to deliver a lecture on the war, in the former city, on the 19th, which would view the war, in all its aspects, through rebel spectacles. Nice man, that The employees of the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the number of nearly three thousand, held an inignation meeting at the City Park, opposite the Yard, to take into consideration the recent order of Secretary Welles, requiring them to work on the same terms and conditions as outsiders. This order, involving an increase of the hours of labors and a decrease of pay, does not meet their

A committee of one from each department was appointed to confer with the committees of the other Navy Yards, it being stated that similar movements had taken place at Philadelphia, Portsmouth and Charlestown.

The committee met with the committees from those yards this afternoon, and appointed a delegation to petition Congress for a repeal of the eighth section of the act recently passed by them, requiring the men to work from sunrise to sunset. They also adopted the Charleston protest, that they would not work under the order of the Secretary. They then reported to the meeting, who almost unanimously resolved not to resume work except under the old regulations.

Among the incidents of yesterday was a fatal affray at the disreputable house No. 80 West Hous-2. If the frozen roots are well buried, filling as " Bouquet Billy," Charles Golding and Julia ton street, between a notorious character, known Sherwood. Billy, Julia and Charley were pitching into each other in fine style, when an outsider, named Andrew Fowler, endeavored to separate the parties. While displaying a bowie knife he was stabbed in the head, and died from the effects of the wound. It is not known who struck him, but the three "contestants" were arrested and committed.

On Thursday evening a fight took place at the hotel" of Fred Lowrie, No. 86 James street. During the melee the proprietor turned the gas off and discharged a pistol among the crowd. A shot took effect in the forehead of Thomas Ryan. Lowrie was arrested, and Ryan was conveyed to the hospital, where he is now in a dangerous condition. As usual on the day succeeding "New Year." there was comparatively little activity in business circles. Many of the leading merchants, in fact, did not make their appearance on 'Change at all. The Bank officers held another meeting, with a view to bring about concord of action with Mr. Secretary Chase The only thing they have agreed to, thus far, however, is to accept his demand notes as "currency," and to appoint a committee to go to Washington to have a talk with Mr. C. personally.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

FORTRESS MONROE, Jan. 4 — The scouting party which went to Great Bethel yesterday morning from Camp Hamilton was between seven and eight hundred strong, composed of six companies of the Coast Guard, six compani companies of the Coast Guard, six companies of the 20th New York regiment, and three compa-nies of Harian's cavalry regiment, under command of Acting Brigadier General Weber, accompanied by Major Vegersack and Major Carling of Gen. Wool's staff. At about two miles beyond Little Bethel the infantry halted and the cavalry pro-ceeded towards Big Bethel, and some six miles this side of that place meta mounted rebel picket, which was driven in. The cavalry gave chase, but were unable to overtake them. On arriving at Big Bethel, the place appeared to have been deserted, and a careful examination showed that to be the case. It had, apparently, been occupied by three or four thousand troops, including two or three hundred cavalry. Breastworks were found nearly half a mile in extent, and pierced for twelve guns. After a short stay the scouting party returned. No guard was left there, as was stated yesterday.

The steamer S. R. Spaulding is loading for Hatteras Inlet. The Burnside Expedition is now daily expected here.

From Gen. Banks' Division.

FREDERICK, Jan. 3.—To day General Banks and staff, accompanied by their ladies, took a special train bence and joined the Vice President and family at the junction. They proceeded thence to Sandy Hook. At the Point of Rocks a national salute was fired by Capt. Knapp's Battery, attached to Col. Geary's command. Ater reaching Sandy Hook, the party proceeded to the Mary-land Heights, where, on arriving at the battery they were entertained by an exhibition of shell-ing out a picket station between Harper's Ferry and Bolivar, where the Union residents where stopped in their intercourse with each other

The party then returned to this city. To-night a general invitation was issued for officers and citizens to call on the Vice President. and ladies, at Gen. Banks' headquarters. From 7 to 10 o'clock, notwithstanding a heavy fall of snow, several hundred ladies and gentlemen paid their respects to Mr. Hamlin, his lady, daughter, and several other ladies. The excellent band of the Ninth New York were present, and performed several of their best pieces. The Vice President and his retinue took lodgings at the United States, and will return to Washington in the morning. The military telegraph has been completed to Romney, with a branch to Williamsport. Messages have been sent from Cincinnati to Alexandria on a single circuit.

Refugees continue to arrive here from Virginia by way of Harper's Ferry, Williamsport, and Hancock, and after a preliminary examination here are sent on to Washington.

The Rumered Loss of the Parana.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 -Nothing is known here or at any of the te egraph stations on the lower St. Lawrence of the loss of the Parana, rumored from Halifax, and no belief is placed in it. She was not expected to come to the St. Lawrence. The weather during the past two days has been very severe. The thermometer last night was 15 degrees below zero. HALIFAX, Jan. 4 .- There is no news of the steamer Parana, but all apprehensions in regard to her safety have subsided, from the fact that she did not leave Southampton until the 20th uit. Mason and Slidell are hourly expected to arrive here in the British gunboat Rinaido.

Partial Destruction of the Louisville and

Johnston's and Buckner's forces have torn up the Louisviile and Nashville Rail. road for three fourths of a mile about four or five miles beyond Green river, piled up the cross-ties, jaid the rails upon them and s t fire to the whole mass; repeating the same operations at different distances all the way to Glasgow Junction, besides felling as many trees as possible across the track, and were engaged in blowing up the tunnel, which is about 300 feet long near the junction

The Great Fire at Nashville.

LOWISVILLE, January 3 .- The crew of the Pink Varble have returned from Nashville. They say that at the great fire at Nashville, which consumed $700,000 worth of property on the 22d ult., C. Q. Armstrong's pork house, formerly of this city contributed materially to the progress of the flames, and that the stored shells exploded terrifically in every direction. The rebels have promised to pay for the boat, as it was engaged in bringing them machinery, under a permit from Secretary Chase.

Fire at Cortland, N. Y.
